

STUDENT PERCEPTIONS OF LVMH

For the tenth consecutive year, LVMH topped the Universum France rankings as the most attractive employer among students at leading business and management schools. This award recognizes LVMH's dynamic human resources policy, nourished by a unique ecosystem made up of people whose passion is at the heart of their success.

The 2015 ranking is based on feedback from more than 34,000 students from 112 institutions of higher education. Tomorrow's talent pool is attracted by the diversity of our business segments and métiers, our numerous brands, and the scope of our geographical presence, combining to make LVMH their preferred future employer.

LVMH also ranks number one in the 2014 Trendence league table of preferred employers among students at business schools. The Group has held the top spot for four years. Some 9,500 students in management participated in this year's survey.

"We are proud of these repeated votes of confidence and delighted that the entrepreneurial career prospects offered by our more than 70 companies around the world are clearly recognized. Our talent development policy is anchored in our culture of fluid job mobility across businesses and geographies and supported by ambitious in-house training programs aligned with the distinctive nature of our activities," said Chantal Gaemperle, LVMH Group Executive Vice President, Human Resources and Synergies.
